Foreword

As tomorrow's leaders and educators, our heritage will be the maintenance and promotion of friendly relations with our fellowman; the Thoroughbred staff has thus found it fitting to base the 1949 THOROBRED on the theme "COMMON HERITAGE."

Every course which we have studied has instilled in us the foundations of peace and good will toward man. Through History, Economics, Science, Education, Business, and other studies we see that the people of other nations are confronted with the same problems as we. Through Art, Music and Literature, men of all nations have expressed themselves the same as we fundamentally. Although language differs; the great works of masters have been translated and universally accepted.

So, it is without a doubt, with so many people loving the same things, that we in the world of tomorrow, with the background of tolerance and goodwill instilled in us by our Alma Mater, we can be instrumental in bringing a world peace. For this is our "COMMON HERITAGE."

We hope that the activities recorded herein are evidence of the morals and standards of our Alma Mater. We further hope that this bit of work will bring to its readers pleasant memories. It is the hope of the editor that as you turn the pages of this book you will be able, through this presentation, to sense those intrinsic values which have found tangible expression, for us, in the buildings and individuals that color and influence our lives here.

THE EDITOR

Dedication

Because you have instilled in us a love for a strong leader and a faithful servant; because you will always be a vital part of our memories of K. S. C. —we the class of June, 1949 dedicate this year book to you, President R. B. Atwood.

Chaplain's Message

REV. C. E. COBB

It is unnecessary to expound the idea that these are troubled times in which we live. The many outside sources of trouble and confusion are quite evident. But it is necessary for me to say to you that the fundamental cause of this trouble and confusion is the lack of internal stability and anchorage. Without religion we are not likely to emerge from this confusion and trouble. Religion strangely enough does two things at once; it lifts one out of himself and it reinforces one in himself. It directs attention toward God and toward other people and new centers of interest develop.

You're as pretty as a picture
And as sweet as you can be.
I love you so sincerely;
You're all the world to me;
And if ever I should lose you,
It would surely break my heart.
For I love you; I adore you;
You're my Kappa Alpha Psi Sweetheart.

You're fairer than the fairest;
I have loved you all the while.
I know you're my Kappa darling,
For you have that Kappa style.
Faith should never let me leave you;
Faith should never let us part;
For I love you; I adore you;
You're my Kappa Alpha Psi Sweetheart.

History Of The College

The Kentucky State College is the result of an act passed by the General Assembly of Kentucky in 1886. This act established the State Normal School for Colored Persons and was approved by Governor J. Proctor Knott on the 18th day of May in the same year. The city of Frankfort, through its council, donated $1,500.00 for a site. Since that day that site has been locally known as "Normal Hill."

The next year, 1887, Jackson Hall, containing four rooms and a chapel, was erected. John H. Jackson, A.M., from Berea College, was elected as first president. The school opened its doors on October 11 with three teachers, and before the school year ended there were enrolled fifty-five students.

During the last decade of the 19th century the school witnessed many changes. In 1890 there were added the departments of Home Economics, Agriculture and Mechanics. In the spring of this year the school turned out its first graduates, a class of five. In 1893 there was organized a High School department. In 1897 a farm of 265 acres was purchased for the Agricultural Department. This expansion continued in the 20th century, both in name and program.

In 1902 the name was changed to "Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute for Colored Persons," and the president was made an ex officio member of the Board of Trustees.

Kentucky State College is situated about three hundred feet beyond the city limits of Frankfort, on a beautiful hill overlooking the city. Its campus consists of about thirty-five acres of choice bluegrass land, adjoins the campus.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad, carrying not only its own trains, but those of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, passes through this farm.

The U. S. Highway No. 60 passes between the campus and farm, forming a dividing line between them. Entrances to both campus and farm are located on this thoroughfare.

Foreword

As tomorrow's leaders and educators, our heritage will be the maintenance and promotion of friendly relations with our fellowman; the Thoroughbred staff has thus found it fitting to base the 1949 THOROBRED on the theme "COMMON HERITAGE."

Every course which we have studied has instilled in us the foundations of peace and good will toward man. Through History, Economics, Science, Education, Business, and other studies we see that the people of other nations are confronted with the same problems as we. Through Art, Music and Literature, men of all nations have expressed themselves the same as we fundamentally. Although language differs; the great works of masters have been translated and universally accepted.

So, it is without a doubt, with so many people loving the same things, that we in the world of tomorrow, with the background of tolerance and goodwill instilled in us by our Alma Mater, we can be instrumental in bringing a world peace. For this is our "COMMON HERITAGE."

We hope that the activities recorded herein are evidence of the morals and standards of our Alma Mater. We further hope that this bit of work will bring to its readers pleasant memories. It is the hope of the editor that as you turn the pages of this book you will be able, through this presentation, to sense those intrinsic values which have found tangible expression, for us, in the buildings and individuals that color and influence our lives here.

Dedication

Because you have instilled in us a love for a strong leader and a faithful servant; because you will always be a vital part of our memories of K. S. C. —we the class of June, 1949 dedicate this year book to you, President R. B. Atwood.

REV. C. E. COBB

It is unnecessary to expound the idea that these are troubled times in which we live. The many outside sources of trouble and confusion are quite evident. But it is necessary for me to say to you that the fundamental cause of this trouble and confusion is the lack of internal stability and anchorage. Without religion we are not likely to emerge from this confusion and trouble. Religion strangely enough does two things at once; it lifts one out of himself and it reinforces one in himself. It directs attention toward God and toward other people and new centers of interest develop.

Foreword

As tomorrow's leaders and educators, our heritage will be the maintenance and promotion of friendly relations with our fellowman; the Thoroughbred staff has thus found it fitting to base the 1949 THOROBRED on the theme "COMMON HERITAGE."

Every course which we have studied has instilled in us the foundations of peace and good will toward man. Through History, Economics, Science, Education, Business, and other studies we see that the people of other nations are confronted with the same problems as we. Through Art, Music and Literature, men of all nations have expressed themselves the same as we fundamentally. Although language differs; the great works of masters have been translated and universally accepted.

So, it is without a doubt, with so many people loving the same things, that we in the world of tomorrow, with the background of tolerance and goodwill instilled in us by our Alma Mater, we can be instrumental in bringing a world peace. For this is our "COMMON HERITAGE."

We hope that the activities recorded herein are evidence of the morals and standards of our Alma Mater. We further hope that this bit of work will bring to its readers pleasant memories. It is the hope of the editor that as you turn the pages of this book you will be able, through this presentation, to sense those intrinsic values which have found tangible expression, for us, in the buildings and individuals that color and influence our lives here.

THE EDITOR

Dedication

Because you have instilled in us a love for a strong leader and a faithful servant; because you will always be a vital part of our memories of K. S. C. —we the class of June, 1949 dedicate this year book to you, President R. B. Atwood.

Chaplain's Message

REV. C. E. COBB

It is unnecessary to expound the idea that these are troubled times in which we live. The many outside sources of trouble and confusion are quite evident. But it is necessary for me to say to you that the fundamental cause of this trouble and confusion is the lack of internal stability and anchorage. Without religion we are not likely to emerge from this confusion and trouble. Religion strangely enough does two things at once; it lifts one out of himself and it reinforces one in himself. It directs attention toward God and toward other people and new centers of interest develop.
